TOWN LOSES BIG CAVALRY CAMP

Too Many Fences in this Section Say War Department Officials, and Brigade of Cavalry will Maneuver in Virginia.

Gettysburg loses the big cavalry camp announced for this place during the months of July and August. The camp will be established near Winchester, Virginia, and the 2500 troops will spend sixty days there in maneuvers and instruction.

The decision to give up Gettysburg as the place for the camp is said to have been influenced largely by the fact that the country in this section is not adapted for cavalry maneuvers. There are entirely too many small farms with numerous fences to allow big bodies of troops to move rapidly and satisfactorily and a more extended country with less obstacles to contend with was determined upon. The fact that a camp site was to be had here, fully equipped with water, light and other facilities weighed strongly in favor of Gettysburg but the maneuvering ground proposition was too big a handicap.

Secretary of War Garrison heard the claims of towns in twelve states before finally designating Winchester as the place for the cavalry camp. A territory three miles east of Winchester containing 1200 acres of land was offered and, after a thorough inspection and comparison of this with other sites suggested, it was found advisable to accept the Virginia ground.

This announcement will doubtless come as a bit of bad news to Gettysburgians but there will be plenty of excitement here, at all events, with the students camp and other things arranged for the summer months.

UNIQUE MEMORIAL

Miss Bertie Berger, Well Known here is Remembered.

At the commencement exercises in Irving College on Wednesday a request was presented from the class of 1910 that it be permitted to present each year a bunch of flowers to the graduate who has exerted the most wholesome influence on her fellow students during her college course.

It was explained that the class considered this the most fitting manner of paying tribute to the memory of Miss Bertie Berger, of Cumberland, Md., who was killed in an automobile accident near her home last Thursday.

When Miss Berger was graduated three years ago, Dr. Campbell, president of the college, called her to the platform and presented to her a beautiful bunch of flowers, saying that he felt some recognition was due her for the fine influence she had wielded.

It is said on good authority that the Western Maryland Railway Company will build a passenger station—34x60 feet in dimensions—at Pen Mar. Some of the heavy lumber for the structure has already been delivered at the station and it is said that next week sixty men will be put to work with the object of completing the building by June 29, the opening day. The present platform and sheds along the track will be torn down and the new station will be erected between the switch leading to the park and the main line. This will be several hundred feet south of the present inadequate station.

HOME TALENT VAUDEVILLE

Amateurs Give Entertainment Deserving Large House. Many Enjoyable Sketches. Xavier Dramatic Society Show.

One of the smallest audiences on record greeted one of the best home talent shows ever given in Xavier Hall when a delightful vaudeville entertainment was produced Wednesday evening by members of the Xavier Literary and Dramatic Society. For two hours those fortunate enough to be present enjoyed sketches and stunts that were well prepared and given with a finish that would have done credit to far more experienced players.

An overture opened the program and as the second number Miss Mary Ramer and Martin McSherry produced the skit "A Marital Mishap." Two love letters written for butler and maid reached husband and wife and the laughable complications which followed were well worked out by the "team."

Mrs. Harry Culp, Miss Ruth Hamilton, Miss Anna Eckenrode and Miss Jennie Althoff, listed as the "Four Rose Buds," sang several songs and the "Xavier Comedy Six" produced another merry sketch in "Tangles." Mistaken identities featured this number and the cast of six mixed matters most successfully. They were Miss Lucy Redding, Miss Marie King, Miss McSherry, William Abel, Edward Swisher, and Frank Slonaker.

Charles Stock was greeted with appreciative applause in several popular songs and the program concluded with a musical playlet, "Country Lanes and City Streets" by Miss Zita Ramer and Miss Grace Ramer whose songs and dances captivated all who were in the hall and closed successfully an entertainment which would bear repetition before a much larger audience.

ANNIVERSARY NEWS NOTES

Bibles in Blue and Gray to be Distributed by American Bible Society. Lease Eight Acres for Location of Big Assembly Tent.

Dr. Eckard, representing the American Bible Society, has arranged to establish stations in the camp for the sale of Bibles. There are to be six stations in charge of six experienced agents. The agents are to be the guests of the War Department. The Bibles are to be printed with blue and gray covers, with some inscription on the covers which has not yet been decided. They will be on exhibition at Miss Reek's store and other stores in town some time before the anniversary.

The anniversary commission is still receiving requests for transportation to the battlefield celebration, although the time for filing such applications has expired. The search of records for names is going forward rapidly and the transportation orders will go out next week. The commission is meeting in Harrisburg to-day to discuss details of the celebration.

The Western Maryland Railway is erecting a 50,000 gallon water tank at Camp Siding east of town. It is connected with the town mains with 3000 feet of four inch pipe. The tank is to be finished June 15th and will be used to supply coaches, and engines, during the anniversary. The tank is to be a temporary arrangement, it is said.

It has been decided to place the big assembly tent, to accommodate 10,000 persons, on the Codori farm and a plot of eight acres has been leased for that purpose. Two large latrines will be erected on the same farm, the lumber being received there this morning.

PROBERS TO HEAR LOBBYISTS

Summoned to Tell of Their Interest in Tariff.

MOVE MADE BY WILSON

Subpoenas Issued For Both Free and Anti-Free Sugar Workers—Some Names Kept Secret.

Washington, June 5.—The dragnet was spread in the senate's probe for "the numerous and insidious lobby" which the president recently denounced. Subpoenas for a score of men were issued.

It is generally understood in Washington that some of the names were furnished by President Wilson, and that others are those which developed in the testimony of senators. The new witnesses are to be heard next week. Some of the names are kept secret, but Senator Overman, chairman of the probe, gave out this partial list:

Aaron Gove, Denver; Dr. S. W. McClure, Salt Lake City, secretary of the National Wool Growers' association; Henry F. Oxnard, New York, prominent in the beet sugar business; Edward P. Dickinson and Jules Godchaux, representing Louisiana sugar interests; Sidney M. Ballou, E. E. Paxton, H. D. Mead and Walter G. Smith, also understood to be interested in sugar tariff affairs; John F. Hamburg, New York; Harry Irwin and H. T. Alexander, Trenton, N. J.; Frank Carroll, Buford Lynch and John Gorman, all of Washington.

Some of these are men whom senators have testified appeared in "a legitimate capacity." The list indicates the apparent purpose of the committee to question representatives of both the free sugar and anti-free sugar camps, both of which have been conducting vigorous campaigns in Washington.

A small army of assistant sergeants-at-arms started out to summon the witnesses for next week, by which time the investigators will have finished taking testimony of senators and plunge into an examination of the "lobbyists."

This new turn of affairs many believe is "one of the suggestions" of President Wilson, made at his recent conference with Senators Overman and Reed, and of the investigating committee, and many of the president's friends predict it will be Mr. Wilson's answer to the testimony of many senators that they have seen no lobbyists in Washington and know of no attempts to influence congress against the Underwood bill.

A list of more than 1500 additional names was put in by Senator Penrose, covering some of the persons who visited him while the Payne-Aldrich bill was being framed, and all his callers during the reciprocity and Democratic wool bill fights in the senate.

Senator Lane said he was a physician and had no interest in anything affected by the tariff.

"That handsome man back there by the wall was very much worried about wool," he said, pointing to a listener. "The handsome man" said his name was S. W. McClure, and that he was secretary of the National Wool Growers' association. He probably will be subpoenaed.

Lane said he knew of no "lobby," but believed money was used to try to convince people that had effects would follow the tariff bill.

Senator McCumber said he produced wheat, oats, rye, flax and sometimes potatoes, all of which were "disastrously affected" by the tariff. No one had attempted to influence him, he said, and he knew of no use of money.

Senator Newlands said he had some farming interests in California, Nevada, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

Newlands named the following who had talked with him: S. H. Cowan, live stock; A. D. Baldwin, Sidney Ballou, Henry Oxnard, Truman G. Palmer and Claus Spreckels, sugar; S. W. McClure, wool.

Senator Perkins said that he severed his financial interest in any business that might be affected by legislation when he came to congress.

Senator Norris said he owned two wheat farms in Nebraska. "In a general way I assume there is, and has been, a lobby here," said he. "From the fact that I receive daily circulars on the subject I assume there is a lobby here for and against free sugar."

Hoppie's aged wife, daughter and grandchild were tossed about in the wreckage and are terribly shocked, but are expected to recover.

Senate to Probe W. Va. Coal Troubles

Washington, June 5.—Despite suggestions from coal operators that a visit of the senate committee investigating the West Virginia coal strike conditions might "undo all the work" of the state authorities in suppressing "disorder," the committee determined to adhere to its original program to begin hearings at Charleston, W. Va. Tuesday, June 10, at 2 p. m.

JAPAN INSISTS LAND ACT DISCRIMINATES

Rejoinder Reiterates That the Treaty is Violated.

Washington, June 5.—Japan's rejoinder to the United States' reply to her protest against the California anti-alien land law was delivered personally by Ambassador Chinda to Secretary Bryan.

The rejoinder sets out why the Tokyo government continues to regard the Webb law as being discriminatory against the Japanese; in derogation of the equalities of treatment prescribed by international law, and a violation of the treaty of 1911.

Nothing in the nature of an ultimatum is contained in the note. Its general tone is to invite further discussion of the disputed points and it contains nothing tending to make up a final issue.

The note was very long and of its nature entirely argumentative. Secretary Bryan and Ambassador Chinda were in accord that no good purpose could be served at this time by a public discussion of the delicate question. It is known, however, that the whole tone of the rejoinder is that of a dignified and orderly presentation of Japan's view of the case, closing with an invitation to further negotiations.

MATAMORAS IS CAPTURED

Mexican Constitutionalists Take Important Port of Entry.

Brownsville, Tex., June 5.—Matamoras, an important border port of entry, fell into the hands of the Mexican Constitutionalists after a battle that continued several hours.

The federal defenders of Matamoras ran out of ammunition and they slipped away quietly, leaving the rebels in control.

The garrison had been in the trenches for nineteen hours without rest or food, and had used the last cartridge in their fight to hold the city against General Blanco's men.

The Constitutionalists did not attempt to force the center of the city until daylight, when they advanced, firing as they came, fearing that some of the federalists still might be entrenched behind the bags of stones and dirt.

Kills Husband For Burglar.

Chicago, June 5.—Mrs. Louise Var Keuren shot and killed her husband John B. Van Keuren, mistaking him for a burglar. The Van Keurens had been separated, though not divorced for several months. Mrs. Van Keuren told the police that she heard the crash of breaking glass and saw a hand stretched through to unlock the door. She said she fired at the man and, after killing him, saw that it was her husband.

Gallant Volunteer Firemen.

A gentleman who had all the earmarks of a foreign nobleman about him, including the whiskers and the handkerchief up the sleeve, sat in a Broadway restaurant eating one dish after another until his range of appetite and his marvelous capacity won him the attention of a group of men headed by Mason Peters who were at the next table drinking seltzer.

"TO THE PUMPS, MEN!"

One order after another—soup, fish, roast, entree, salad, side dishes—disappeared down the strange gentleman's throat. He had eaten enough for three and still was not satisfied.

He whispered to the waiter. The waiter went away; the foreigner waited; the group at the next table waited. Presently the waiter reappeared bearing upon a platter an enormous rum omelet, surrounded by a halo of blue flames. That was the last straw.

"To the pumps, men!" shouted Peters. And, like gallant volunteer firemen, they grabbed up the seltzer siphons and put out the fire.—Saturday Evening Post.

SUFFRAGIST HURT BY KING'S HORSE

Trampled When She Grasps Animal
Kunming in Derby.

AOPYEU, 100 TO 1, WINS

Craganour Finishes First, But Is Disqualified For "Bumping"—Jockeys Badly Hurt.

Epsom, Eng., June 5.—The most dramatic Derby ever run on the historic course at Epsom Downs was accompanied by a series of events of the most startling character.

Just before the finish a suffragette attempted to seize the bridle of the king's entry, Ammer, while he was running at his topmost speed. The woman was fatally injured when the horse fell and the jockey was badly hurt. The king and queen and scores of royalties witnessed the incident.

The race itself was unusual. The favorite, Craganour, at 6 to 4, crossed the line first, but was promptly disqualified for "bumping," and was displaced by Aobyue, a 100 to 1 shot. Craganour's time for the mile and a half was 2 minutes 37 3/4 seconds.

Fifteen horses competed and the places were awarded to Louvois, at 10 to 1 against, and Great Sport, at 20 to 1 against. The purse was $32,500.

In the race immediately following the Derby Jockey Whalley was seriously injured and his horse had to be shot.

Thousands of people, including many American visitors, were gathered at Tattenham Corner, watching the horses taking the critical turn into the straight for home, when the suffragette dashed forward and seized the reins of his majesty's colt. They saw the horse stumble, trample the woman so terribly that she was unrecognizable and then fall with the jockey.

Her name is given as E. Davidson, and she is thought to be Miss Emily Wilding Davison, a member of the Woman's Social and Political Union, who since 1909 had been sentenced eight different times to imprisonment for participation in suffragette outrages.

The woman was dragged beneath the animal. Thousands who saw the mishap were shocked. The woman had crowded to a point as near the horse as she could. Several of the runners had flashed by when she darted from the crowd. Ammer, swerved as she jumped for the reins, but she managed to get a firm grasp upon them.

As the horse fell a shout went up from the grand stand and paddocks. When the horse staggered to its feet women near the scene fainted at the sight of the two still forms.

The woman was so badly trampled about the face, where the sharp caulk of the horse's shoes had ploughed into the flesh that she was almost unrecognizable.

CHILD CHOOSES FATHER

Court Awards Girl, Ignorant of Divorce to Millionaire.

New York, June 5.—Muriel Bishop, the eleven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cunningham Bishop, about whose custody there remained the only point of dispute over the terms of Mrs. Bishop's divorce decree from the banker, was given to her father by Supreme Court Justice Goff, after Mrs. Bishop had announced that she was willing to sacrifice her right to the little girl in order that she might not have to be told the circumstances under which her father and mother had been divorced.

Following this settlement of the custody of the child, the only question at issue was the provisions for visits by Muriel to her mother, and by Abigail, the five-year-old child, who is with her mother, to her father. It was settled that each parent should visit the child in the custody of the other twice a week. It had already been decided that Mrs. Bishop was to have a counsel fee of $10,000 and alimony of $15,000 a year.

FEEDING VALUE OF CEREALS COMPARED

The principal grains used on the farm for feeding purposes are oats, corn, barley and occasionally wheat and rye, says the Iowa Homestead. The feeding value of these feeds for dairy cows largely lies in their protein content, because protein is scarce and high in price. Too much stress, of course, cannot be laid on protein simply because it is high in price, for there are other things coming in which materially affect the feeding value besides scarcity.

There must be considered palatability, digestibility and the general effect on the animal's body. Of the three feeds first mentioned (corn, oats and barley) they stand in relation to each other for milk production about as follows: Oats rank first, each hundred pounds containing nine pounds of protein and sixty pounds of carbohydrates and fat. Barley would come in second with nine parts protein and seventy pounds carbohydrates and fat, while Tuebla Pieterje Carren Fidesa, the pure bred Holstein heifer here-with illustrated, has a remarkable milk and butter record for so young an animal. She was bred and is owned by the University of Nevada, situated at Reno. At the Sacramento fair, November, 1912, she won the milking contest in her class. In seven days she gave 22.5 pounds of milk, containing fourteen pounds of butter fat. Her age at the time of the test was one year, eight months and sixteen days.

Corn has six pounds protein and seventy pounds carbohydrates and fat. It would appear at first thought that barley would be the better feed, as it contains the same amount of protein as oats, with the added advantage of possessing a higher fat content, but oats come nearer approaching a balance, while they furnish a roughage so much needed by the animal and which is very palatable.

Barley is a byproduct, not, strictly speaking, a farm product, but it is a most excellent feed for dairy cows. It is a much better feed for milk production, especially when fed in connection with other feeds, for variety, than ground wheat. Whole wheat contains 10.2 pounds of protein, while bran contains 12.6 pounds protein per 100 pounds. Bran is more bulky, less concentrated and pasty and aids materially in carrying other feeds through the manifold and alimentary tract and absorbs the juices of the stomach, causing the animal to take heavy drafts of water so essential to the production of large quantities of milk.

A consistent ration for cows in full flow and heavy producers is 1.6—that is, one part protein to six parts carbohydrates. Light milkers will do very well on a ration of 1.7, but it should not be widened beyond this.

Corn stover has a nutritive ratio of about 1.23, depending somewhat on the quality of the feed. Binder corn or corn fodder has a ratio of 1.14.

Clover Bloat.

The chief symptom of bloat is a sudden distension in the left flank, which swells up and appears as tight as a drumhead when thumped with the finger. Relief must be immediate if suffocation is to be avoided and consists in providing an artificial outlet for the gas by "tapping" the animal. This is best accomplished by inserting a trocar and cannula into the most prominent portion of the swelling. To prevent further gas formation administer a drachm of two ounces of turpentine in a pint of raw linseed oil or a quart of new milk. As a prevention avoid turning the cattle out into clover or alfalfa until the dew or rain has dried off. In addition, giving a full feed of dry roughage, such as the animals are accustomed to, just before turning them out will be helpful in preventing this trouble.—Bulletin Kansas Experiment Station.

Salt For Live Stock.

Salt is very necessary to the digestive processes of all animals and especially of those living on a green vegetable ration. The action of the salt in the digestive organs helps to make quicker the assimilation of foods, and animals that are without salt for any length of time in summer immediately begin to lose flesh. Their condition may be recognized almost at a glance. Arrangements ought to be made to keep salt continuously before all animals. In summer it is an easy matter to buy a couple of hundred pounds of ordinary rock salt and leave a few chunks of it around the watering place where the cattle, sheep, horses and hogs can reach it any time they happen to feel the craving.

Ring a Bull.

A bull calf seven months old should have a ring put in his nose and be taught to lead with it. The opening in the nose is made by the use of a trocar. Copper is the common substance used in making rings but some are made of iron covered with tin.

The Kindness of Kansas.
A man from Illinois moved into a Kansas community. He was impressed with his own importance, and one night soon after his arrival he found an opportunity to make a speech at a social gathering.

He began as follows:
"Fellow citizens of my adopted state of Kansas, a few years ago I was a member of the Illinois legislature."
An old farmer rose right here and interrupted.
"Of course," he said, "it is right and proper for the new brother to let us know about his past life and what he has done, but I want to say if he has lived a decent and honest life since his term expired nobody round here will throw up the past at him."—Saturday

An examination has been made into the causes of the unthriftness of trees and garden plants in many large cities, and it has been found that leaky gas mains are responsible for the trouble in most cases. Sweet peas have been found to be especially sensitive to gas fumes. Among the trees the cottonwood seems to be the most thrifty of the common shade trees in the presence of this handicap.

A friend reports the loss of several litters of pigs when the sows were halfway through their period of gestation as the result of their getting hold of a quantity of moldy sludge which was thrown out. This is but one of several instances which have been reported lately where loss of little pigs has resulted from this cause. This experience is a somewhat costly one, but its lesson is well worth learning.

The dilute solution of lime-sulphur has been found an excellent substitute for the Bordeaux mixture in the spraying of vine, bush and tree fruits, but as a fungicide for potatoes it has not been found satisfactory. Experiments carried on last year by the New York station showed that potato vines that were sprayed with lime-sulphur were stunted as a result and that the yield of tubers was materially reduced.

LAUREL ATTACKS
CONTROL OF RACES

Sues Jockey Club For Refusing to Sanction Meet.

New York, June 5. — Control over horse racing in the east, as exercised by the Jockey club and the National Steeplechase and Hunt's association, was attacked by the Maryland State Fair association in the federal court here.

The Maryland association asserts that the Jockey club and its associates is a combination in restraint of trade and seeks to restrain them from exercising authority over racing anywhere outside of the state of New York.

The suit resulted from the refusal of the Jockey club to sanction races which the Maryland State Fair association wished to hold at Laurel, Md., next October. The Jockey club objected to the dates selected.

Frederick Ballam, attorney for the Maryland association, declared that his organization was distinctly for business purposes. Its plant, he said, was worth $300,000; it had made money in the past and expected these profits to continue.

Joseph Auerbach, counsel for the Jockey club, replied that his organization was a gentlemen's association and in no sense a concern to make money. He insisted that its operation did not come under the regulations of the federal anti-trust law.

To this contention the State Fair association answered that while the club as an organization owned no tracks nor horses, its members owned horses, raced them and were stockholders in race tracks.

JACK JOHNSON SENTENCED

Negro Pugilist Gets Year and a Day Under White Slave Act.

Chicago, June 5.—Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, was sentenced to one year and one day in the penitentiary and fined $1000 for violating the Mann white slave act.

Sentence was pronounced by Judge Carpenter after the negro's motion to a new trial was overruled. The peculiar sentence was pronounced because of the desire to send Johnson to the federal prison under the regulation which admits to the federal prison only those convicts who have more than a year's sentence.

MIKE MURPHY
PASSES AWAY

Famous Trainer Succumbs to Tuberculosis.

HE WAS ILL TWO YEARS

Death Ends Career of Man Who Trained Champion American Athletes For Last Year's Olympic Games in Sweden.

Philadelphia, June 5.—"Mike" Murphy, trainer of athletes, is dead. The end came at his home, 4331 Chestnut street.

For nearly two years he had been suffering with tuberculosis; for the last two weeks, dying. Shortly before the end came he sank into unconsciousness and never rallied.

By his side sat his wife and three children, Mabel, the eldest, eighteen years old; Thorne, a year younger, and George, fourteen. In the room also were Dr. Robert G. Torrey, his physician, and one of the best football players ever trained by Murphy, and a nurse.

A few minutes after "Mike" breathed his last the news spread like wild fire over the University of Pennsylvania, where he had been trainer for the past seven years. The flags on the university buildings were lowered, and a grief that was heartfelt as it was a true testimonial of the character of the man, was manifested on every face.

All athletic activities at the university have been suspended until after the funeral, which will take place on Monday.

Murphy was one of the greatest, if not the greatest, trainer of athletes in the world. He trained the champion American Olympic team last year.

"Mike" was cheerful and hopeful up until the time he became unconscious. Only last Sunday he had received several members of the victorious intercollegiate track team of the Red and Blue, just back from Cambridge. He chatted with them, wanted to be told just how it was done, and to all who saw him gave the impression that he was stronger than he had been for weeks.

It was but a flash before the end, however. Monday he was not so well, and up to the time of his death he continued to grow weaker and weaker.

Mike's illness dates back to the Pennsylvania-Michigan football game at Ann Arbor, in the fall of 1911. Mike had a cold when the team arrived at Ann Arbor. It was snowing and cold. The last half of the game was played in a small-sized blizzard. But Penn was losing and Mike could not be induced to leave the side lines. There he walked up and down, encouraging the men by his presence and by his words.

He returned to Philadelphia a sick man, but even then he refused to give up. He continued with the team and rounded them into shape for a victory over Cornell on Thanksgiving day. After that he collapsed. He was sent to the pines of New Jersey, where he spent most of the winter. Tuberculosis had developed, however, and one physician told him that he would never recover. Mike attended the funeral of that doctor later, but the physician's words were true.

The next spring he recovered sufficiently to take charge of the Olympic athletes. He thought the trip to Sweden would do him good. He was mistaken. He returned weaker, and this time went south.

ELECTION BILLS PASS

State-Wide Primary and Party Enrollment Go Through Penna. Senate.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 5.—The state-wide primary bill, over which the senate battled, passed finally by a vote of 34 to 5.

The party enrollment bill also passed finally, 26 to 16, the affirmative vote being exactly the number necessary to pass a bill in the senate.

Both now go to the house for concurrence.

The passage of the primary bill if passed into law sounds the death-knell of the non-partisan ballot, with the exception of the judges; makes it impossible for a candidate to run on more than one ticket; changes the dates of primary election days to the third Saturday in May in even-numbered years and the third Saturday in September in the odd-numbered years.

It also provides that no party of those dissatisfied with a primary result can be formed after that primary, and makes it difficult to start such movements at any time.

Stabbed With Hat Pin.

Hazleton, Pa., June 5.—Hatpins and screw drivers concealed in their sleeves were used by girls employed at the Jacob Gerhardt shirt factory when approached by strike pickets and asked to remain away from their places. Frank Fitzpatrick, of Ebervale, was stabbed with a hatpin. Harriet Byerly, of West Hazleton, was arrested.

Sugar cane fiber, now largely waste material, promises to become one of the most valuable of byproducts. It has been practically demonstrated that the fiber produces a stronger paper than any heretofore manufactured. It can also be worked up into artificial wood, celluloid, ultracellulose and wax.

The great bulk of American exports to Germany—just about three-fourths—are classified as foodstuffs in crude condition and food animals, foodstuffs partly or wholly manufactured, and crude materials for use in manufacturing. Demand is large for American cotton, copper, lumber, wheat and other raw materials which Germany needs.

His Savage Retort.

Ordinarily the members of the house are anxious to do anything in their power for their constituents and to be as polite as possible about it. But once in awhile the rule is broken. An office seeker was trying to persuade a southern member that as a hard working political lieutenant he should be rewarded with a piece of the government payroll.

"There's no use in talking about it," exclaimed the congressman roughly. "You're not competent to fill these jobs up here."

The constituent, insulted by the tone more than the matter of the remark, turned immediately to go out of the office.

"Wait a minute," called the lawmaker, realizing that he had been impolite and reaching for a printed document on his desk. "Have you read my last speech?"

Replied the job seeker, with beautiful contempt, "I hope I have."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Milking Capacity of Sows.

The difference in the milking capacity of different sows is as wide as in cows, as would readily be recognized if sows were in the habit of being milked as cows are. When the milking is done in an experimental way the difference becomes manifest. According to the Wisconsin experiment station, the average milk yield from mature sows ranges from 4.1 pounds to 5.8 pounds daily, but in experiments made with four sows the highest yield made in one day was 8.7 pounds, while the lowest was 1.2 pounds. These figures indicate how wide may be the difference in the milk yield of different sows. The number of pounds of milk given, however, does not afford a fair idea of the work the sow actually does. For the milk is about twice as rich as that of the ordinary cow. In the experiments referred to the average composition of nine samples of sows' milk was: Water, 80.35 per cent; fat, 8.24 per cent; solids not fat, 11.41 per cent.

Calves In Storm.

When calves are born in the spring it is better to keep them housed during the summer than to turn them out to grass to fight the flies and to withstand the hot rays of the sun, says Hoard's Dairyman. Calves raised in a clean, shaded barn will do much better. At a very early age the calves consume very little, if any, grass. The ideal way is to have the calves born in September or October. The first few months of a calf's life it requires considerable personal attention, and during the winter months especially there is more time to devote to the stock than in the busy summer months. When spring comes the calf is six or seven months old and can be turned to pasture to advantage. It is past the period when it needs very much close attention. If the grass is good and plenty of water supplied, the calf will largely look after itself.

Bacon Production.

To produce good bacon it is best to have grazing for the hogs. To raise hogs in a pen is costly. Many kinds of grazing can be provided, even if one's farm is small. It is possible to sell hogs as other animals, and it is economical to do so. Originally the hog was a grazing animal—and he still is, if given a chance.

THE CONSERVATION OF ENERGY.

Shopping to some women, and to some men, too, means work—real hard drudgery.

With knitted brow and determined look they go about their shopping with no more liking for it than a small boy who goes to have his hair cut.

Do you wonder that the results under these conditions to say nothing of the distressing mental strain occasioned by such unscientific methods?

Shopping drudgery is so needless, so unnecessary. It is costly and unsatisfactory, your fault and my fault if we go at it blindly, and worry ourselves to distraction when, by the simple method of reading intelligent, helpful advertising in good newspapers like The TIMES we may shorten our steps, settle perplexing questions, and, incidentally, if we read carefully, keep many a dollar within our purses that might otherwise go astray.
